

The President's Corner-The Social Geography of Movements in California by Chris Chase-Dunn

CSA President-Elect Anne Marengo got feedback from interested parties regarding the choice of a theme for the 2014 CSA conference. The theme is "Social Justice." This overlaps with a project I am working on with Paul Almeida (UC-Merced) and David S. Meyer (UC-Irvine) that we call CalMovs. CalMovs will focus upon the participation of California social movement activists in local, state-wide, national and transnational social movement activities and the history of social movements in California. CalMovs will bring together social movement scholars and experts on changes in the California class structure, ethnic and racial groups and analysts of political behavior to study the history and current reality of social movement participation in California. We define social movements broadly to include new religions and religious evangelicalism, policy-oriented movements across the political spectrum, and formally apolitical efforts focused on individual development, prefigurative communities, and those that seek to change public opinion. We are particularly interested in tracking and studying newly emerging movements and will be prepared to go to the field as new movements arise.

We are assembling a data set that uses social movements that have had a presence in California as the main unit of analysis. Our network of experts and students will pool their knowledge and we will initiate a crowd-sourced CalMovs wiki that will solicit contributions from the general public. This data set will be used to study the entire assemblage of social movements and nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) that have operated in California since 1769. The data set will be used to study the issues of how, when and why some movements scale up while others remain local. We will also design the data set to be useful for the study of how California has been involved in world revolutions since 1789. We have a long list of suppositions about the connections between California history and world history. The CalMovs data set of social movements in California will help us to evaluate these hypotheses and to find connections that we may have missed. This project is just beginning and we are looking for sociologists in California to collaborate with. If you are interested, please contact me chriscd@ucr.edu and let's organize sessions and present papers on these issues at the CSA meeting next year.

Program—by Anne Marengo, President Elect and Program Chair

The slate of presentations is shaping up for the 25th Annual California Sociological Association Meeting at the historic Mission Inn in Riverside on November 7th and 8th. This year's theme is Social Responsibility and the keynote speaker is Jane Prather, Professor Emeritus, CSU Northridge. I am looking forward to her presentation and know it will be enjoyable in addition to informative and inspiring.

There will be six breakout sessions as usual and there are many interesting sessions planned.

Thank you all for helping make this CSA conference successful.

Executive Director's Report by Ed Nelson

We're all looking forward to our 2014 conference on November 7 and 8 at the Mission Inn in Riverside. Anne Marengo (our President-Elect/Program Chair) has done a great job at organizing this year's conference. She put together an exciting program which is in this newsletter.

You can register for the conference and pay your dues by going to our website at <https://cal-soc.org> and clicking on the "Membership and Registration" tab at the top of the home page. Be sure to pay both your membership dues and your registration. You can pay with your PayPal account or by credit card. Another option is to fill out the form that is included in this newsletter and mail it to me along with your check. All attendees must pay both dues and registration fees. However, note that there is a special student observer rate of $10 per day for students that are there to observe. Students that present papers need to both register and join the association.

CSA Annual Business Meeting (all members welcome), 3:00-4:00 PM, San Diego East Room

Please join us on Friday night for our keynote address at 5:00. Our keynote speaker is Dr. Jane Prather who will talk about “Lessons Learned in Prison: the Urgency for Prison Reform.” Following the keynote address there will be a buffet dinner which is free for all CSA members and their partners. Students who join the association are also invited to the dinner. We will not be able to accommodate students who paid the student observer fee but did not join the association.

I’m looking forward to seeing all of you at the Mission Inn.

Other Announcements, etc.

Community college faculty will meet at the conference. Would any other interest groups want to set a time and place to meet? If so, contact Anne or Ed.

Conference at the Mission Inn, Riverside

 We have met at the Mission Inn many times in the past and always enjoy the beautiful, historic setting. It has a very interesting history going back to the late 1800s. It is now a fascinating collection of arcades and gardens, turrets and domes, flying buttresses, spiraling staircases, catacombs, and carillon towers. It includes collections of fine art, Spanish cannons, stained glass, ceramic tile, saints, dragons, bells, wrought iron, Asian temple guardians, and life-size papal court figures. The chapel was designed specifically to accommodate a massive Eighteenth Century gold-leafed cedar altar from Mexico and seven impressive Louis C. Tiffany stained-glass windows. The hotel's rich history and unique architecture led to its designation as a National Historic Landmark.

The Mission Inn is about 30 minutes from the Ontario International Airport. For more information about the Mission Inn, please visit their website at www.missioninn.com.
